This issue of CRbeat offers up an alphabet soup of the latest news on FDA, NIH, ACRES, PIs, and more.

FDA Guidance Defines Proper Usage of eHealth Records in Clinical Trials

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) hopes to “modernize and streamline” clinical investigations by promoting use of electronic health records (EHRs) in clinical trials with a new guidance providing direction on when and how to use EHRs as a data source in a trial, among other areas. The guidance is aimed at sponsors, clinical investigators, contract research organizations, and institutional review boards. Read More >>

Each year on May 19, ACRP leads the global effort to honor clinical research professionals and raise awareness of clinical trials.

As a sponsor of International Clinical Trials Day, you will earn high brand visibility including digital advertising, a blog and webinar opportunity, plus tremendous goodwill as you demonstrate your dedication to clinicians worldwide.

#CLINICALTRIALSDAY

The background of the top half of the slide is a collage of images showing diverse groups of people, including students and professionals, holding signs that promote clinical trials. The signs feature the hashtag #CLINICALTRIALSDAY and various messages like 'WE ARE HOPE FOR CHILDREN', 'WE ARE SAVING LIVES', and 'COMING UP WITH THE BEST STANDARDS OF CARE!'. The overall theme is celebrating and supporting clinical research.

I admit it. Over the span of more than 20 years as a clinical research professional,
I have become what I affectionately refer to as a "Regulatory Geek." While I learned the criticality of compliance with regulatory requirements early in my career as a research monitor, my appreciation and understanding of the concept evolved as I progressed through the ranks to my current role, which is focused on specialty auditing and advanced training. My volunteer efforts on behalf of the clinical research enterprise via my involvement with ACRP have also broadened my regulatory perspective.

When I joined ACRP's Regulatory Affairs Committee several years ago, I had no idea how much it would impact my career and my desire to see global regulatory harmonization become a reality. Those who know me via my volunteer efforts for ACRP recognize my passion for standardization and harmonization. I believe that there are more similarities than differences in the conduct of research, whether it
